"Today, there are 4.5 million students enrolled in universities outside of their home countries, and it is estimated that the global population of international students could double in the near future, achieving approximately 8 million by 2025."

"Students and parents consider a university education in the USA as a good investment because they have access to the largest choice of excellent colleges and universities and to the English-language skills that are so critical in today's job market. The USA is home to the largest group of higher education students from around the world— about 1 million in academic year 2014/2015 – who have contributed about USD30.8 billion to the USA economy over the same period from tuition and living expenses."
